AZANIA COMBAT

JUNE - JULY

- SERVICE SACRIFICE & SUFFERING -

1976

From Sharpeville to Soweto

Stones are their only weapons and the lid of a garbage can is a shield against machine guns and rocket launchers for militant Azanian youths fighting it out with apartheid facist police in the atreets of Alexandra Township (Dark City), nine miles from the centre of Johannesburg, on Friday, June 18.

A CALL TO AZANIANS from Potlako K. Leballo, Acting President of the PAC

The popular uprising against apartheid facism at home has lifted our struggle to a new height. The courage of our children and the rest of our compatriots is unique in the annals of African Liberation struggles. This heroic struggle is a challenge for us to close our ranks and fight as one for the overthrow of our mortal enemy -- apartheid facism. I call on all patriotic Azamians to come forward... the battle at home is our Supreme Task -- one and all! There can be no turning back. We must fight until a free and democratic Azamia is born.

June 22, 1976

The Washington Post went to visit Mangaliso Sobukwe, the National Leader of the Azanian people and President of the PAC-in Kimberly, where he is under house arrest and surrounded by a minefield of restrictions, to ask for an assessment of the current situation. Their report says: "He is convinced large scale guerilla war will soon break out in Namibia ... and will ultimately spill over into the South African heartland itself. The tide of Black liberation, he thinks, cannot be resisted, and the regime of Prime Minister Vorster, for all its outward strength will crumble suprisingly fast." It continues, "Now, Sobukwe understands, young South African blacks greet each other in the segregated townships with clenched fire, the symbol of black power".

Blacks Explode In S. Africa; Scores Killed

The blacks who, by the rigid rules of aparthesis, must almost all live in their own townships in South Africa last week risited in eight townships and two anti-emitter, and trainy were killed and impired by the tuiteta of white and black policemen seeking to contain the violence. The hadden cruption, rate in South Africa, constituted one and remons evidence of how quickly the already tense conditions of the southern part of the continent, can worker.

There is built chance that the 48 million unarmed and helptess blacks of South Africa can encessfully challenge, the traited army and supetantcated weapons of the 4.5 million whites who have imposed spartheld on them. But there is for should that majorityrule is the exemual sim of South Afraen's blacks as it is the immediate deand of these in neighboring Shosieus. And the anexpected, destructive ted ag has only re-emphasized what has been apparent for comile. There is a care between dictionary and marsitte workers, in mothers Africa, and the rioting rates' constitute a riginal than The time for that pare has been foreall interied

The author issue that full in the sloting is their averagementale of the fordamental quantum of who will govern. The regime has betterpred to impose a new regulation requiring black students in some black archiols to students in some black archiols to students in some black archiols to students in some black archiols. Inguited by blacks as the language of their appropriates. Students in Soweto, the huge black insemble a few miles from modern Johannesburg — where blacks work but cannot live, except as the generalic servants of whites—marched in demonstration.

There was a flare-up between police and students Wednesday for which each side blazers the other. The police fired. The students rooted. The rioting spread to other black, enclaves and there were other clashes in which police used automatic weapons.

The Government's most recent figures were that more than 100 (all hur two black) had died and more than 1,000 were injured.

Government and policy officials eapressed determination to end the more. Prime Munater John Vorster and in Parliament: "We will not be intimidated and will maintain law and order at all costs."

(Line) shell (Fig. )

South African policemen in Source remove the body of a white Government official who, according to a wilness, was backed to death

Language issue prompts race clash in South Africa

By June Goodwin Staff correspondent of The Christian Science Member

Julianneshur.

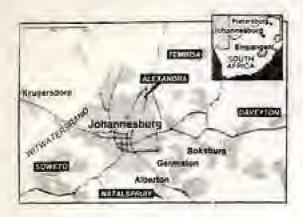

There has been another sign of representative knowned and below the surface and ready to crisps in South Africa. It came in a massive demonstration in the tast African investiga of Sowyta just out side Southerniesburg.

to it six people were killed - including two polariment - and at least 40 hort.

The trouble was the information of a dirice started curious that missibly Sciente high-actual students protesting against the South African theoremiest's insidence that they be trought mathematics and social states in Africans, not English. (Afrikans is the language of white South Africans of Dutch deternit from whose community has come the main throat for the country's contraregular pace posteries.)

Early Wednesday hundreds of cludents gathered at the wastern boundary of Soweto for another protest march. They carried business saying. These with Afrikaans. We are not Boern, and Long has Austra

Text of Vorster Statement

Assert to The Otto Time!

NORANNESBURG, June 16-Following is the text of a statement by Prime Minister John Vorster to Parliament in Cape Town today, as recorded here from a broadcast:

The victories and arron salisiero Braice pireconscet un Soweth for the paid to a days Kind appeared the annual party or places in the said to the university at Turif a wind that topochesons out Williams inferent The pade may mar, our manufactured in restning neder and initial in detailers on renson for any particl. The symple about in in-South Africa to Sugarion. rammers, in this way, for exsimple, cuntors were simultaseniolly aproved there, and elsewhere, and I'm morety giving you this as an ex-ample, that a brent had allegedly exploited on a Juhancesburg station and that 40 people were loilled.

That rumos is completely undruse. It is significant than such a range started simultaneously in several parts of the structry. Consequently, the public must be on their guard against these and other number which, accomiing to my information, will be aproad on a large scate, You are requested to attach on value to them. You will, an frequently as it is necessary, he kept informed of developments. Besides the rumora, which are being aproad so deliberately and in such an organized way, the object is that panic should be sound by way of arong I have in inform you that the puller

ROOTS OF VIOLENCE FOR SOUTH AFRICA

Language Issue That Led to Riots Pits White Tradition Against Black Rejection has a been instructed, repartless of who is involved, to invited lives and property both every means at their chances.

Unforcementely. I pagnot own but that we are dealing burn not write a aponeaneous underer has wolle a deliberare attempt to bring about polaricaring between wheres and him be Certain et Canten hard and persons, working fessiber in achieve this are doing this with a view to oblabring obvious observes Further to what the Minister in Justice has already said. I want to have a worsing m-modiately be BRUSHIN. storeed.

This Government will not he instrudated, and instructions have been given to minimism law and order at all rosts Those educational institutions at which blacks are destroying their own an indefinite period. If, as it would seem to me, people have the idea that the Govexperient, in ones, of may intended talks, will now hexitate to act, they are making a mistake. I want to emphasize that however important these talks are, and they are very important, law and order in South Africa is more important to me than any thing clie

Special to The bies pays Times

JOHANNESBURG, June 17 — The riccog and bloodshed now troubling South Africa began with what was a relatively minor cause, in the context of apartheid.

The issue that set 10,000 students marching in the black township of Soweto was a Government requirement that they be instructed in some subjects in Afrikaans, the language of the Boer settlers of

S. Africa jolted by rioting

All sides expected to call for reforms

By Humphrey Tyler Special to

The Christian Science Meester

Cape Town

The rivis in Soweto, the bugs African townwhip encode Johannesburg, have shocked white South Africans more than anything since the killing of 69 Africans by police at Sharpeville 16 years are.

The shock is all the greater because South Airsca was just getting over the impact of its sadden and unsuccessful involvement in the war in tearby Angola. Now comes this serious flare-up right inside the country's own borders, at a time of unrest elsewhere in southern Africa when South Africa itself needs calm and unity.

The riots are likely to increase the calls from all sides for the government of Prime Minister John Vorsier to speed up its racial reforms. Even government supporters are clearly uneass.

They have been fulled into a feeling of security over the past decade by the almost remarkable peace and quet in South Airsea, while there has been so much unrest in countries nearby, such as Rhodesia. Mezambique, and Aspola.

Now they have seen how deceptive that was, and how inflammable the situation of home can be

Just after Sharpeville, various leading white South Africans called for drautic policy changes in favor of blacks and declared that the "old book of South African history is dead."

This chorus can be expected again - but more argently this time because African nationalists now have ended white rule in neighboring Angola and Muzambique

South Africa that evolved from 17th century Datch. The language issue seems to have triggered deeper resentments.

"Language of the Oppressor"

"Afrikaans is the language of the police station, the pass office and the oppressor," declared The Sand Dally Mail, the Johannesburg newspaper that is a burr under the Government saddle. The paper's interpretation, was expressed on placards that the students carried to their confrontation with the police.

Even Die Vaderland, an Afrikaans newspaper that strongly backs the ruling Nationalist Party, carried the message to ics readers yesterday with a photograph displayed across the top of its front page.

The photograph aboved a planard lying against the charred body of a white official killed in the rioting. The placard read: "Beware Afrikaana, the most dangerous drug for our culture."

"Afrikaans is a stench" read another, photographed where students dropped it after the exchange of rocks and gustire that preceded the rioting.

that preceded the rioting.
If it is a symbol to blacks, the language is no less so to the 24 million Afrikaners, who sentled on the Cape of Good Hope in the 17th century.

From the early 19th century, the time of the British takeover of the Cape colony, more than a century passed before the Afrikaner, through the Nationalist Party, regained unfutured control of the land that his forefathers had settled.

When the nationalists came to power in 1948, they are only to reinforce the position of the Afrikaner. Language was a sen of this, and Afrikana, officially crequel with English, became increasingly predominant to government.

A Monument to Afrikaans

The Government erected a lowering monument symbolizing the language outside Pauri, in the Cape Province.

Celebrating the language and instelling it as the principal tongue of politics were, however, not enough. Over the years, with English the language of business, blacks overwhelmingly preferred English to Afrikaans.

In this lay the seeds of the Sowero riot. In 1974, the sutherities in the Transvasi, acting in concert with the central Government, ruled that English and Afrikaans were to be used equality in black junior secondary schools.

Aside from the political implications, it was a decision fraught with complexity for most black children. A hybrid that stems from the high Dutch of the Boers, intermingled with touches of Malay and other setiler-tongues, it is considered by linguists for from easy to learn.

The decision was also, in a special senso, discriminatory. While white students in the country's English-speaking community are required to atody Afrikaans as a language in state schools, they are not obliged to use it as a medium of instruction.

Black parents and teachers protested that the ruling would retard the students' education since most had grown up speaking an African tongue and English. But the Government held firm, dismissing schoolboard officials who resisted.

South African students in Soweto, near Johannesburg, protesting against compulsory use of Afrikaans in schools

the Pill Company and

South African blacks protesting the feaching of Afrikaans watch as a truck burns in the sawnship of Soweto.

South African Press, in Editorials on Riots in Townships

Special to The New York Throng

JOHANNESBURG, June 19-South African newspapers have use of Afrikaans as the medium reacted in different ways to of primary education. Yet no the township riots of the past one expected an explosion of week that has left more than this nature. 100 dead and 1,000 injured. A selection of excerpts follows:

3 materday.

d-termined to maintain "order a all cost" and the police had been instructed to "act without regard to persons involved" to protect property and lives.

We believe that tough meatures may be necessary to stop the violence, but "order at all cost." The words strike chill. They presage the possibility of action so ferocious that one shudders to think where it might lead.

The fuses of racial enemity are alight and time is desperately to collect their thoughts. Alrea-sidmir. dy there are distressing signs. Whatever the case may be that fundamental issues may be we believe that there is sufficient in a welter of defensive lient evidence that our commu-

the dead are buried, we must is good reason to believe that not lose sight of these factors to in-depth investigation of all in the witch-hunt that follows the factors involved is of the If there were agitators who most argent necessity sold-bloodedly led Soweto into Comments from 1

If the riots and the burning mediately available, and the killing make white South Africa more responsive Zambians in Atoto the needs and rights of LUSAKA, Zambia, June 20 those who live in the shadow (Reuters) — Zambian students Beeld: The question now is how the explosion in Soweto should be approached - and how similar occurrences can be avoided in the future. South Africe cannot afford disorder on this male.

For this reason it is commendable that the Soweto Bantu Administration Board considers it necessary to conduct an investigation on every necessary aspect. But a primary factor can be identified at the outset a lack of communication between the authorities and the people of Soweta

The Government has for some time been aware of smoldering

Now Soweto is burning. Crim-The Rand Dally Mail: if anytunity, and the police have to thing is calculated to bring restore order. Of course, this home to the country the exis the first, urgent priority. And theme gravity of its present is the first, argent priority. And crisis it is the warning that the police can be helped if the came fro mike Prime Minister authorities give their argent attention to a request that black. The government, he said, was parents be allowed to select the medium of education for their children.

Die Transvaler: It is both good and necessary that the chairman of the West Rand Bantu Administration Board has promised an in-depth investigation at the highest level of the unrest in Soweto.

The unrest does not constitute merely a language resentment among a group of achoolchildren. The students were organized behind the scenes.

And the masses joined the short. Police power may delay unrest, possibly a form of mass an explosion but only a bold hysteria. But the fact remains greature from white to black can that the masses are ready to align themselves with the first The Star-The urgent priority signs of anarchy. This must be now is to end the violence. All kept in mind, And in the same agree, except the thugs and agi-breeth we have to admit that latots who are undentable in there are more negative emogredlest of this bloody mix. though affaire among the blank. edient of this bloody mix. tions after among the blacks.
The politicians have had time than officialdom is willing to Whatever the case may be, nications with the black man When the fires are out and leave much to be desired. There cold-bloodedly led Soweto into Comments from the World, violence, let them be found and an English-language daily for face justice. the black people, were not im-

Zambians in Atom Protest

LUSAKA, Zamhia, June 20 those who live in the amething (Reuters) — Zambian students city. Soweto, then something roday broke windows of the decest and worthwhile will be been salvaged from the French Embassy here in protest have been salvaged from the against France's proposed tale mindlessness and futility of high nuclear power plants to unidentified wrecked computer equipment and emashed a large plateglass window yesserday 21 the Fifth Avenue offices of the South African Airways. The vandal was said to have been accompanied by another man who snapped photo-graphs of the incident No. one was injured and the two twen samped.

South African Office Is Vandalized Here

The incident occurred in the airline agency at 600 Fifth Avenue, near 40th Street, skurtly before I P.M. women receptionists trild the police and agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation that the intruders said nothing when asked what they were doing.

The police said both men were black, but they were unable to determine whether the atrack was eventuried with the recent rate rate folls in South Africe.

A spokesman for the F.B.I. said the agency could become involved under laws requiring protection of forign diplomate and extension.

South African youths play near a burning bus during rioting in Sowete, South Africa

South African policemon holding off demonstrator after rioters overturned car in Johannesburg, killing a man whose body is under the vehicle, Yesterday marked the third day of the worst rioting in South African history.

Two South African students carry the body of a youth who was shot during disturbances in Soweto.

South African students clash with police over the use of Afrikaans in school

The Sham of Independence

By DAVID SIBEKO

TO SENSIBLE PERSON WILL deny that we-called independence for the Transkei hantustan is a fraud. Discussion is centered on how to relate to this; shim when the South African apartheid regime finally delivers "independence" next October, For the Azanian national liberation movement, which is recognized by Buth the Organization of African Linity and the United Nations us the legitimate representative of the people of South Africa, the issue is quite clear: Varster is not going to be allowed the satisfaction of seeing his diversionary factic draw the fire away from the main culprit - the apartiseid regime in Pretoria.

As painted out in a paper on Transkei prepared for the United Nations by a British anti-apartheid group, lust year, the basic ideas helind the bantuston programs, and the geographical configurations which have resulted from them, are deeply rooted in the history of usdamalism in Southern Africa and cannot be understood in isolation from their colonial background "This continuity of policy demonstrates that the bontustun program is a long standing strategy which is an essential condition of the mointenance of white supremuev."

During the late '50s the anticulonial struggles all over Africa swang into full gear, whilst inside South Africa is new militancy was being injected into the struggle for freedom and genuine independence Unlike the cutorial powers in metropolitan Europe, where povernments were further pressurized by their own liberal-minded citizens, the white settler oligarchy in South Africa responded with intensified repression rather than concede to the legitimate demand of the indigenous African masses. In his History of African Nationalism. John Hatch, the British historian, points out that a foreign-based colonial power could not have survived for long after an event such as the traumatic anti-pass campaign. launched by the Pan Africanist Congress when police massacred scores of African demonstrators, at Shurpeville in 1960

The switch in tactics from naked in campuflaged white settler colonialism took place in South Africa around the same time. The Verwoerd regime decided it was going to rename the "Native Reserves" created under the Native Land Acts of 1913 and 1936 and call them "Banto homelands" ("Banto" succeeded "Native" us the derogatory name for Africans in South Africa), and grant these areas some autonomy. Meanwhile, along with paining independence; African states to the North had acceded to membership of the United Nations transing criticism against apartheid to mount inside the world body. At the same time resistance by the African masses within the country intensified. That explains why Verwoord, the principal architect of apartheid, said: "This is a form of fragmentation which we would inther not have had if it was within our control to avoid it ... in the lightof the forces to which South Africa is heine subjected; there is, however, no doubt as to what must be done in the course of lime."

from the earliest days of white domination in South Africa the "Native reserves" were set aside as cheap Black labor reservoirs, as well as dumping grounds for Africansclassified as obsolete to the industries in the white areas. The harsh passlaws have since that time been used to effect rigid control of the movement of Africans, Under pressure from political forces within South Africa and abroad, us we can see from Verwoord's foregoing statement, the reserves were metaphorically converted into "Banto homelands", a far cry from the legitimate demands for complete self-determination prticulated on behalf of the African masses by their national liberation movement.

Since 1963 the apartheld regime has contrived to use the Transkei as the prize exhibit of its nefortous scheme of dismembering Azania. This carried on despite the fact that in the test of opinion that preceded the creation of a Transket "assembly". Kaiser Matanzima's "Transker National Independence Party" was soundly outvoted by supporters of the non-racialist and antihantustan Democratic Party led by Knowledge Guzana. Journalists have found that old-fashioned Tammany Hall bribery has been responsible for eroding Guzanu's elected majority in the thy assembly Fearing that Guzana would dissolve the assembly and undermine the hoas he was laying our Verwoord nucked the Transkei "legislature" with 64 subchiefs in his pay, enabling his protege. Mutanzima, to be appointed "chief numsier"

The African masses in the Transker have refused to be taken in by any of the cosmetics the apartheid regime has used to make this traves-

David Sibeko is Director of Foreign Affairs of the Pan Africanist Congress of Azania (South Africa).

AFRICA REPORT - May-June 1976

ty of self-government more acceptable. The people have nothing but contempt for the flunkeys who have agreed in be used by the apartheid regime, to give away their birthright in the rest of Azania, and who oppress them, on behalf of Pretoria with laws such as the 16-year-old Clause 400 emergency regulation; which gives powers of unlimited detention without trial to corrupt headmen and puppet chiefs. A pamphlet sent from Transkei to "our friends abroad by Azanian patriots denounced the black salesmen of uputtheld installed as quasidiplomats in apartheid South Africa's missions abroad, as lackeys and burn fracture who represent nothing more than their own selfah interests."

Here we must recall that many of the Azuman national liberation movement's leaders and freedom fighters who have been hanged, and many more who are serving long sentences on Robben Island, or are under house arrest and other restrictions, were born and grew up in Transkel. Thes include Pogn combatants caught attempting to assassinate Kaiser Matanzima, in 1963. James Thomson, Curator of the Nieman Foundation for Journation in the United States, was in South Africa (under the auxpices of the US-South Africa Leader Exchange Program) during the summer of 1975 and he visited Transkei and says he found that: "Pretoria's black collaborators - the brothers Matanzimu (Kuiser and George) - and their lesser-chief supporters in the Transkei National Independence Party have established a matually beneficial and highly lucrative relationship with Pretoria". Thornson adds, "The Matanzimas are regarded by many of their own Xhosa subjects, as well as non-Xhosa blacks, as Uncle Toms or worse . . . The Matanzimas' critics, inside and outside the Transkei - some white, but mostly black - perceive - : . a combination of self-enrichment and wishful thinking, or opportunism and greed. Their central and most searing charge is that the charade of independence will permanently deprive four million blacks of their birthright: an equitable share in the wealth and power of the South African nation — a nation in large part created and sustained by the foil of blacks."

Tea nursery near Lusikisiki.

Very aften the South Arram racial regime, unwittingly of course. provides further evidence indication rejection of its apartheid policies of separate development by the African people. The much vaunted promoc the regime made of home-awarership for Africans in the urban areas, under it 30-year leasehold (trumpeted as a major concession by the sumetimes sycophantic Englishlanguage press in South Africa) was delivered with a "sting in the fail". declared the Johannesburg Star (November 1 '75). This is become: one of the conditions states that every adult Black who wishes to own u house in a South African town "will first have to become a citizen of a Manustan". That is publical blackmail, pure and simple.

The regime can also be selfconvicting, especially when forced to unvoil its true policies. One such necasion was last August when the minuter responsible for the bantastans. M.C. Botha, stated blantly. In the economic framework of the rounter, the economy of the homelands is interwoven with this of the Republic of South Africa and it doubt to reason that the development of the homelands cannot be carried and at a pace which would have detrimental effect on the economy of the country.

There is a Chinese saying "Facts wristen in blood cannot be disguised by lies written in ink". The central fact in what was said by Bothu is thus South Africa to one country. As Matanzonia's critics told Mr. James Florenson, Transkei "independence" is wishful thinking.

Sometimes apologists for the

Beg-making lectory at Butterworth, Transkei.

preparing for Transkei frivolausly compare that exercise to the genuine decolonization of the former "High Commission" territories in South Africa, particularly landlocked Lesotho. It is no use pretending that the differences between Lesotho and Transket are "mere technical legalities" because international relations are based on such laws. Not only was Lesotho never part of the Union or the Republic of South Africa, the Sothos waged an authentic struggle to revoke British protectorate status and assume independence. There is no indigensias movement calling for secession from the rest of Azonia in Transkei. On the contrary. Azimuny there demand their just share of the power and wealth of the South Africa nation.

There have also been suggestions that the liberation movement in Azamia ought to accept Transket

"independence" us a "step towards total liberation" Such political opportunism is unworthy and distorts the true situation. The aparthoid regime, as pointed out garlier, wishes to use the Bantustans to perpetuate white supremucy. If the Azanian liberation movement elected to join the self-outs in signing away the people's birthrights in the remaining 87 per sent of the country it could have no hope of continued support from the masses if represents whose mandate is clear and unequivocal. The Pan Africanist commitment about furbids acquiescence in further colonialist balkumization of African Lamela

Lastly, there are emotive arguments favoring recognition of Franskei "independence based on humanitanian considerations for those Africans trapped inside Franskei. Questions like "Why should people go without work, go hungry, why must children die, through lack of opportunities and facilities which the Transkeian authorities could channell" have been poxed. The fact of the matter is that the Transkel buntustum and the other reserves were deliberately designed to cause such suffering. The liberation movement is struggling to liquidate such injustices in all of Azamin. The apartheid regime is guilby of these crimes, it can not pass the buck. The jubless and starving people in the reserves are entitled to the great wealth currently manapolized by the capitalist system and its watchdug, the apartheid regime. The Avanian people cannot be blackmailed into surrendering their inalienable rights, for hand-outs and crumbs from the master's table. The people know full well that the price for freedom can be life itself, and they have been paying. They are determined to continue doing so, just like the Indochinese who suffered the most savage hombings man has ever known, before emerging victorious, when US imperialism was finally forced to give up its imposed pupper regimes in Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam. Vorster has it within his power to subject this view to popular expression, through the vote, but he dare not!

This was the Sharpeville Massacre of March 21, 1960, when South African police machine gunned a crowd of unarmed demonstrators, leaving 72 dead.

The delision that apartheid South Africa, because of military strength and the police state it operates, will never be forced to give in to the struggle for self-determination in Arania; still survives in the minds of a few people. Before concluding, this must be examined because it is the downfull of apartheid fuscism that will finally destroy the white supremacists grand design of divide and rule through charades like

Transkei

A journalist from the conservative London Sanday Telegraph recently toured South Africa and he says."1 went to South Africa to listen and try to understand . .", here is part of what he heard: "The blacks are prepared to work with us inside the system," said a young government minister, insisting that the "situation was not near the explosion point, nor was the government living in a fool's paradise". (Two days after that report appeared, on Wednesday, March 31. South Africa announced an increase of its military budget by 40 per cent to $1.6 billion, Explaining the need to double defence spending in the last two years the finance minister, Owen Horwood, said "Political developments in southern Africa clearly demanded an increase in South Africa's defense effort and military preparedness").

After his talk with the government minister the Telegraph reporter. Graham Turner, spoke to a young African student in Soweto and says he wonders if the minister was talking aout the same people. The African student told him: "I could take you down the street and you will find they all talk about Black Power. Vietnam will be nothing to this ... On the surface it is quiet but below there is a volcano". In another interview Turner spoke to a Progressive Party MP who told him " ... the mood of the older blacks is rapidly becoming the same as that of the young blacks". The Progressive party MP, Alex Boraine, related an encounter with members of the minibantustan, the urban "bantu council" in Soweta, to substantiate his stutement_

"They told me they were tired of being a rubherstamp for bauskap, and they couldn't go on any longer apologizing to their sore. I know about the anger of the younger blacks, but that these middle-of-the-road respectable people could display that sort of accumulated anger perturbed me very much I saw, as never before, the stark alternative between a revolution of caring and a revolution or blood. Those choices are coming closer. If we don't move last, there will be no choice left."

Sham of Independence

Another Black "moderate" told Turner: "My greatest fear is confrontation... if anybody of Robert Sohuwke's calibre stood up. I'm almost certain it would lead straight to violence".

The South African apartheid regime does not live in a fool's paradise. Hence the heavy spending on military equipment: The alleged "threat" of external aggression is as old as any of the cuphemisms in South Africa's "newspeak". The real threat to the apartheid regime comes from the Black people who are prepared to do their own fighting, as Turner found out. The guerilla wars in the former Portuguese territories.

as well as those in Algeria and Indochina, have vindicated Chairman Mao Tsetung's thesis that people, and not things, are decisive in the making of war. Modern weapons can assist the delay of victory for the people's war in Azania, but they cannot hold out forever. The statements above show that Azanians are ready to fight.

South Africa is vulnerable on muny fronts, even liefore we take into account the collapse of the huffer zones provided by the Portuguese fund soon it will be Ritodewinn which goes). In the years since the efforts at armed struggle in the mid-1960s most of the rough edges have been smoothed out in the Azanian guerille. A highly industrialized country like South Africa cannot withstand for long a campaign of sophisticated substage. And when that takes place, economic sease will force the regime to concentrate on protecting the country's main assets: urban-based major and secondary induttries. A total cull-up can at best produce only 8,000 regular soldiers backed by some 75,000 reservists and not more than 40,000 regular police and reservists. Apartheid South Africa would be forced to abandon much of the countryside. The countryside is the natural base area for guerillas, aerial bombardment can be severe but control can only be effected through forces on the ground. It will be a hard struggle but all esidence thows that the Azanian people are ready to make the necessary sucrifices to force their enemy to give in to reasonable demands for self-determination for all, in a demoratic and united Azania.

The prospects for victory in the struggle against white supremacy in South Africa are being calculated in years rather than decades, with good reason, as can be seen in references from independent observers in foregoing parugraphs. Against such a hackground "independence" for Transkei becomes as relevant as time-purchasing devices like the bogus assemblies created by the Portuguese in Angola, Mozambique and Guinea-Bissau during the wars of liberation: Mutanzimu's Transkei can become a fait accompli, just like Tshombe's Katanga was in the 1960s. Far-sighted people will avoid falling into the same pitfalls which swallowed up the Belgian colonialists and their Union Miniere.

Published by thet

Pan Africanist Congress of Azania Observer Mission to the United Nations

Provisional Adress: 875 West End Avenue, #14E New York, N.Y. 10025

The answer to Kissinger's African strategy: A strong movement vs. imperialism, apartheid!

Press conference held on April 27 by organizations endorsing the May I Anti-Apartheid action in New York City. Left to right: Gay McDougall, National Conference of Black Lawyers; Laurie Fierstein, Youth Against War & Fascism, John Akpan, Pon African Students Organization in the Americas; Tom Soto, Larry Holmes, YAWF: Yemi Agbeyegbe, PASOA: Kehr Nkula,

Pan African Congress of Azania: Dan Berrigan: Tulinane Emvula, South West African People's Organization

Workers World-April 30, 1928

Since 1965

U.S. $$ in South Africa triples

By MOULY CHARBONEAU

NEW YORK, April 23-Despite the lies which Ford, Russinger, and other representatives of U.S. big business try to tell us. U.S. imperialism has only one true interest in South Africa PROFIT

The super-oppression of Black people there by the racist South African regime through the apartheid system causes so real concern on the part of U.S. corporations. On the contrary, they find that apartheid facilitates their plander of the labor and resources which rightfully belong to Black South Africans, and their collaboration with the pro-Nazi South African regime being fill their caffers and furt their war machine.

Over the past decade, during a period of mounting international protest against apartheid, U.S. investment in South Africa has tripled from $500 million to $1.5 billion.

Most recently Kennecott Copper Corporation, Caltex (an oil profitter), and Seagrams have joined the already large number of American corporations operating in South Africa.

Kennecot Copper has announced a planned $300 million investment in iron- and titunium-bearing braches along the of South Africa

Although Kennecott contends that the titanium will be used as a pigment for textlies, art, and paper industries in Europe, most of the metal will undoubtedly go toward commercial and military airplanes. In 1971 the U.S. used 84 percent of domestic titanium for this purpose

CALTEX REAPS OIL PROFITS

Caltex announced last year a $134 million expansion of its Milnerton refinery near Capetown. Once completed in 1978, the refinery's capacity will be 100,000 barrels of crude oil daily—double the current capacity. Always in need of vast oil resources to fuel their armies, police forces, and the industries which they control, both U.S. importalism and South Africa will benefit from Caltex's operations.

But to Africans whose oil is being stolen. Caltex offers next to nothing. The percentage of Africans in the Caltex workforce has fallen from 32 percent to 22 percent, although they are the vast majority of the population. With no unions and no job protection, they receive starvation wages far below those of whites.

SEAGRAM PLANNING "CLEAN" EXPLOITATION

Seagram, a Canadian liquor corporation with a U.S. subsidiary, is currently involved in behind-the-scenes investigation of a possible $10 million investment in KwaZulu, a hantustan in South Africa 'Although referred to as "homelands" by the South African regime, the bantustans are artificially created reservations on which Africans are forced to live.

A company geared to consumer sales, Seagram has tried to find a "clean" way of exploiting African resources and labor while not endorsing apartheid. This is clearly impossible.

The export of a distillery operation to KwaZulu will not only exploit Africans for profit but will legitimize the bantustan system and aid the racist regime by doing

There is a seemingly endless list of U.S. profiteers operating in South Africa, including Ford, Chrysler, American Airlines, Holiday Inns, Union Carbide, and others. But their grip is weakening as Black Africans after each heroic struggle take more and spore power into their own hands.

13

**** A TIME FOR AZANIA ****

A new special booklet from the P.A.C. in Perspective series. It has articles written before the National Uprising which started on June 16, 1976, but accurately predicting the explosion of violent struggle now rocking apartheid South Africa.

Send for copies to:

Azania Combat 875 West End Avenue, #14E New York, N.Y. 10025

U.S. & Canada:

$1.20 per copy or $10 per dozen

Overseas:

$2.30 per copy or $20 per dozen

(All prices include postage)